MAACBA 2020 Virtual Conference

Thank you to our 2020 Conference Sponsors

Over the last two decades, Liaison has helped over 31,000 programs on more than 1,000 campuses more effectively manage admissions through its Centralized Application Service (CAS™) technology and complementary processing and support services. Partnering with over 30 professional associations, the company has developed discipline-wide services for a range of fields, including most of the health professions, as well as engineering (EngineeringCAS), graduate management education (BusinessCAS), graduate education (GradCAS), psychology (PSYCAS) and architecture (ArchCAS).

Liaison's Centralized Application Services (CASs) combine cutting-edge technology with an intuitive user experience to drive applications across dozens of graduate education fields. At no cost, institutions can join the CAS Community, which will expose their program to new pools of potential applicants and streamline application review processes. Institutions looking to increase diversity and equity benefit from the platform, which makes it easier to remove barriers to access and practice holistic review. CASs are more than a tool, they are communities filled with members who share a passion for graduate education and the students we serve. In addition to helping to support enrollment numbers, CASs also provide a venue where program leaders can share strategies and best practices.

Increasing Diversity in Business through Academe

The PhD Project encourages Black/African-Americans, Latinx/Hispanic-Americans and Native Americans to pursue their business Ph.D.'s to serve as role models and mentors for future business leaders.

Since our inception in 1994, the number of minority business Ph.D.'s in the U.S. has increased historically from 294 to close to 1,600 today, with another 300 minority business students in the pipeline today.

During the 2019-20 academic year, 300+ doctoral and non-doctoral granting institutions participated in The PhD Project, gaining direct access to our members for networking and recruiting.
